TimeOut: It is technically dazzling. It is a rare musical that's perfect for rowdy tweens. There is truly nothing else like it.

Broadway World Reviews: Tim Hatley's set design, Howard Hudson's lighting, and Andrzej Goulding's video design meld perfectly to maintain a fantastical visual spectacle.

"Starlight Express was the ultimate in collaboration between all departments to pull off such a technically complex show. With a rig comprised of over 500 moving lights, around 3km of LED pixel tape, 100 ZacTrack packs used by lighting, video and sound, over 200 DMX controlled winches, 14 laser fixtures, and every type of smoke, spark, and low fog machine you can imagine, it was a labour of love for the large team of electricians, programmers, and follow spot operators. The show was great fun to light, requiring a massively diverse colour palette and some really intricate sequences, particularly in the races with every department using all their available resources. The project felt unlike anything other show in terms of its scale and the sheer amount of technology - and I am hugely indebted particularly to our Production Electricians Tom Johnson and Oli Thomas, alongside Mat Illot at Christie Lites, for their months of work pulling the whole thing together."
